

PINE VIEW FOUNDATION

Alumni News

August 2001

Sarasota, FL

dear alumni:

Think the Pine View Foundation does nothing but put out newsletters and host an annual shindig? No way. The PVF's main goals are actually to sponsor educational and cultural programs, to make grants to teachers and departments of the school, and to make capital investments in equipment or materials. The Foundation also maintains scholarship funds honoring the memories of Sol Malinsky, Elizabeth Herman, and Aaron Korotie.

To keep the mission of the Foundation fresh in our minds, this issue includes a list of the grants awarded to teachers in the 2000-2001 school year, as well as the names of the past year's scholarship winners (pages 13 and 14).

Of course, the Foundation also maintains alumni connections, including this newsletter. The database is nearly 2000 strong now (including current and former faculty and parents, as well as friends of the school). This issue is the first that the Class of 2001 will receive, and I have listed all the graduates with their colleges on pages 4 and 5. Congratulations and best wishes to them, as they leave Pine View and embark on the wild journeys PV grads so often find themselves embracing.

Another school year is beginning, and I wish all of you a happy new year.

Class of 1978

It's the silver anniversary for the Class of '78. Jane Zuknick Morgan is collecting everyone's e-mail, address, phone number, etc., in preparation for the 2003 25th reunion. Once everyone is accounted for, the planning can begin. E-mail Jane at Janie624@aol.com to announce your presence.

Class of 1982

If you haven't yet, make sure you contact Diane Warmbier (941-927-0115, dwarmbier@home.com) or Joy Nagy (423-854-9950, jdjwnagy@aol.com). The reunion is still scheduled for June 21-23, 2002, in Sarasota. Mark your calendars!

Class of 1991

After learning that many of you could not attend a reunion in Sarasota in June, the Class of '91 reunion was moved from June to a new date—December 22, 2001. A reservation has been made for the private bar upstairs at Coasters Restaurant, 1500 Stickney Point Road, Sarasota, starting at 6 p.m. There are also plans for a pool or beach party during the day. For more information or to RSVP, contact Janet Shih (202-466-1311, yulishih@yahoo.com, jshih@lsl-law.com) or Shannon McMahon (sham@mlis.state.md.us).

Class of 1992

If you haven't yet, be sure to contact Jenna Ricci (jenna_benna18@hotmail.com) for information about the 10th reunion.

The 70s

Jackie McCormick '79 writes "I'm still in Sarasota with my sons Dallas (11) and Thomas (9). Dallas will start at PV next year in the 6th grade. Pythons—the next generation! He's already aiming for that high PV standard. In June he was interviewed for a newspaper article about Neopets. And then a camera crew came to our house to record his "expert" commentary. It was featured with the Web site of the week on SNN. My younger son, Thomas, will begin the 4th grade at Phillippi Shores and plans to attend PV too (perhaps for middle school). He loves soccer and chess and creates the wildest roller coaster Sims (although sometimes I think he's inherited my sick sense of humor). I work with stone at European Marble here in Sarasota. I'm active in the local Rotary club. They sent me to France last year on an exchange program for young professionals. This year I helped to coordinate the visit of a team from Brazil.... I've traveled a bit this year too. I attended Katy Stenhouse's '79 wedding at Boston in January. Spent a few days at Disney World and saw the Main Street Electrical Parade before it retired. Then saw Cal Ripken at Camden Yards before he announced his retirement. The boys, my Mom (Mrs. McCormick), and I just returned from a grand circle tour of the central West. Dallas made a Web site to show off the images: www.netcolony.com/life/jqm/. For those of you that will see me, I have 700-plus photos to torture you with. I can't adequately describe all that we saw, but the highlights include ballooning over the Black Hills of South Dakota, white water rafting near the Rockies, and driving to the top of Pikes Peak. I experienced saturated color and light as never before. Driving through a canyon at sunset, the slate walls seemed to resonate with the very essence of the hues. Very captivating. Who knows where I'm off to next. ... Closer to home, I can now be officially designated as a marathoner and a triathlete. Karen Hoopes '80 got me started. We've done the Disney Marathon twice. And I've done 6 tri's (not the Ironman length). I still kind of look over my shoulder when they call for athletes; but it's been a lot of fun and you haven't lived until you've had race numbers written all over your body. I keep trying to convince Karen that the natural progression is adventure racing. We'll see. ... I get to see Richard Lichtenstein '80 occasionally. He, Karen, and I went to see the play Art at the Asolo and then wandered over to the Ringling Museum where I entertained them with my sketching ability. I crashed the Class of '81 reunion (David [Bowman '81], you did a great job) and run into other alums here and there. I can be reached via email at jqmcc@hotmail.com."

Jane Zuknick Morgan '78 writes "To update you on my whereabouts, I am now living in my eleventh residence in seventeen years of marriage! I should write a book to assist other corporate wives. I've gotten quite good at selling homes quickly, packing and unpacking, etc. My husband George and I currently reside in The Woodlands, Texas, near Houston and love being near saltwater again ... plus the golfing isn't bad either! George is VP of National Operations for U.S. Oncology. I retired from a career in the hotel and restaurant consulting industry and now fill my days with sewing, needlepoint, and other creative projects."

Rebecca Stone '77 is living in Annandale, Virginia, working as a nurse practitioner in Ob/Gyn. In addition to her 4-year-old son Truman, she is expecting to adopt a girl from China in late 2001.

The 80s

Tracy Lynn Wolf Dickey '81 is living in Delray Beach, working as Director of Children and Youth Ministries for St. Paul's Episcopal Church. She is also active in leadership of Christian Foundation and Youth Ministry in the Diocese of Southeast Florida. She writes "loving being back in sunny South Florida, where my husband is working at the Boca Raton Resort and our daughter is thriving in the Oak School, a wonderful Montessori program."

Carissa Ferguson '88 writes "I live in Waynesville, NC—about 20 minutes of popular Asheville, NC. I just graduated from Western Carolina University and am beginning the mighty job search in my new field—environmental health! I am especially interested in water quality and non-point source pollution control.

"I am also playing keyboard/singing in 2 local bands in the Asheville, NC area.

"I now consider Western North Carolina my home and am absolutely in love with the intense beauty here.

"THANKS to Mr. Bowermeister for being my mentor and leading me to wild and adventurous places—I hold you in my heart with gratitude!!!!

"Hope all the Class of '88 is doing great. Sorry I missed the reunion—I was busy in school. Maybe next time!!"

Susan (Wolff) Fitzpatrick '86 is now living in Rome, Georgia. She writes "I am still a veterinarian, working part-time at a small animal private practice in Rome. My husband and I have 2 kids now—we have an almost 3-year-old son named Thomas and a 7-month-old little girl named Anna. We still get down to Sarasota two or three times a year to see my mom—we're planning a trip for next month. No other news, but thanks for the newsletter. I like to read about people I went to school with even though I'm not close with anyone from those years."

Sheila (Dickman) Greene '81 writes "I wanted to share our news that we had our sixth (yes, you read that right) child last November. Garrett Taylor was born on November 22, 2000. We've had great fun and renewed challenges to have a baby around again. (My second youngest is 5 years older than the baby and my oldest is 17.)"

Tammy Gruen '88 writes "For the past two years I have been working as a Senior Financial Analyst for Cisco Systems in Raleigh, NC, and attending UNC Chapel Hill's MBA program. When I wasn't working or studying I still managed to remain active in sailing, hike pieces of the Appalachian Trail, travel to South America, and I even made it to Becky Self's '88 (now Becky Hill) Colorado wedding. "As of August 2001, I officially have my MBA degree, moved to Atlanta, and will be taking a consulting job with Arthur Andersen's Global Finance team doing corporate turnarounds. The new job will be a lot of travel but extremely interesting work. I'm hoping to fit sailing and a social life in there somewhere but it may be quite a challenge!

"My brother, Bob Gruen '90, has been working for PricewaterhouseCoopers for the past three years, traveling to different cities on many IT consulting projects. Bob is currently living in Charlotte, NC, where he is still adding toys to the collection that now includes a Jeep Wrangler in addition to the Porsche 911, several jet skis, and various other computerized, high-tech gadgets (some things never change!).

“Our sister, Leslie Gruen, did a short stint at PV then graduated from Sarasota High. She is currently working on her undergrad and just transferred from FSU to USF in Tampa to continue working toward a degree in Computer Science. Mom and Dad are psyched to have her closer to home and Les is looking forward to getting back in touch with her old buddies.

“We hope all our classmates are doing well. Let Bob and I know if you plan to be in the Atlanta or Charlotte areas this fall or home for the holidays. My e-mail address is tammy_gruen@mindspring.com. Take care!”

Dustin (Johnson) Kroeze '84 writes “I wrote before announcing my marriage last April. Allow me to be more thorough... I married Bruce Kroeze April 16, 2000. After a lovely honeymoon in Italy, we relocated from Austin, TX, to Portland, OR. My son, Ian (7), welcomed his brand new baby sister, Mia, on January 28, 2001. I am currently a stay-at-home mom. I left a career in crime scene investigation that I loved and worked very hard to achieve, but I believe it's best for both children to have me at home during these formative years. Plus, it would break my heart to drop my new baby off at daycare every day.

“Thanks for doing such a great job at keeping us all in touch. I'm only sorry Ian and Mia won't have Pine View in their futures!”

Marni (Chaplin) Lennon '88 and her husband, Jason are thrilled to announce the birth of their son, Jared Matthew Lennon. Jared was born March 26 in Miami, Florida. Marni continues to serve as Assistant Dean of Students at the University of Miami School of Law and will take a break from teaching for the year. Jason works as a human resources manager at Federal Express, at their Latin American and Caribbean headquarters in Miami. They can be reached at marni_lennon@hotmail.com.

Renée Newell '81 writes “I'm still in Naples, Florida. Feel there are a few more projects to take care of before the wind blows me somewhere else. I've spent the last two and a half years following spirit. Quit financial consulting at Merrill Lynch and decided to ask what life wanted of me. Discovered people “find” me to help them achieve their dreams. I'm inspired to ask questions that only have answers in the hearts of those I work with AND most frequently I have puzzle pieces needed to complete their dreams ... it's fascinating!!! A friend brought me the video The Muse and it stuck! My latest “musings” include: the Springs International Spa and Healing Institute in north Port Charlotte (the “old” mineral springs for those of us who have been going for years); a software startup involved in security and changing paradigms on the Internet; real estate development deals in Naples inspired by a Swiss investment group; an alternative medicine/cancer healing institute in Naples; interactive musical/healing performances; arts for peace concerts to raise funds to plant seeds of children's eco-villages/group homes for the most needy children of the world; a Web site developed specifically for not-for-profits/indigenous people to sell their arts/crafts to help sustain their lives. ... Anyone interested in getting involved with any of the above or if you're in need of inspiration or connections to achieve your dreams, please email me: muse@magicalflights.com ... The adventure continues!!”

Susan Somach '81 writes “I finally made it to Moscow and have settled into a great apartment near the Embassy in the city center. I'm in one of the famous ‘Seven Sisters’ Stalinist skyscraper apartment buildings and am working at USAID.”

Lydia (Kantor) Whitney '84 is living in Frederick, Maryland, “happily (and recently) divorced.” She is a 6th grade English and reading teacher. Lydia recently traveled to Belize to scuba and snorkel.

Lorri Riley Willowby '88 wrote in May: “Just wanted to drop you a note to let you know that I graduated this week with an Associate's in Physics. I even got to graduate with honors—probably hard for anybody who knew what kind of grades I made at PV to believe. Anyway—I'm off to UAH this fall to finish my engineering degree—will probably be done there summer of '03.

“My girls are continuing to flourish—last week I registered Amanda for high school and Darby for kindergarten on the same day <sigh>. It was a bittersweet day. This will be the first year in a public school for both of them since Amanda has been home schooled since kindergarten. She tested out of 8th grade completely, and is going directly into 9th. I had skipped her a grade a couple of years ago, but it's nice to have “the system” verify that I made the right decision. She is taking French this summer so she can get used to classroom instruction before the school year starts—she's been taking it for a couple of years but this will give her high school credit, and it will be easy course work for her.”

Peter Denton '99 writes “I’ll be beginning my junior year at Georgetown University this fall (majoring in English and History, with a Government minor) and I’m loving every second of it. D.C. has turned out to be a great fit for me and after two years I still don’t think I’ve fully explored half of the city.

“I went off to Washington armed with some vague notions of political involvement and saving the world from mean Republicans. During my freshman year I helped run the Bill Bradley campaign on campus and traveled to New Hampshire a couple of times (narrowly avoiding Dan “Smarty Pants” Fernandez '99 on the Gore campaign in Nashua) to knock door-to-door before the primary. After Bradley’s withdrawal, I became chairman of the Gore campaign on campus and oversaw campaign trips around the northeast and some flashy GeORgEtown shirts.

“After becoming slightly disillusioned by party politics after the November (and December, and January) debacle, I began focusing more on issue-specific advocacy and I helped to found a Georgetown chapter of the Campus Alliance to End Gun Violence, now a wing of Handgun Control, Inc. I’ve been interested in the issue since my debating days at PV, and I feel honored to have spoken at fundraisers for the Center to Prevent Handgun Violence and the anniversary for the Million Mom March this past Mother’s Day.

“I love the northern Virginia/D.C. music scene and I’ve spent the last two years making up for the boredom of Sarasota. I really have absolutely no clue about life beyond graduation, but I’ve been throwing around ideas of writing, teaching, politicking, and lawyering. Maybe all of them ... who knows? “Not to waste much more space, but this one is urgent—Dan Fernandez will be sharing a house with me and a few other friends this summer in D.C. If you have any words of comfort or advice, drop me a line at dentonp@georgetown.edu.”

Juliet Geldi '96 has dropped the DeVeaux from her name. She writes “I finally graduated in May 2001 from the University of Pennsylvania with a BSE in civil engineering systems and a minor in music (magna cum laude).

“I’ve had a great time these past few years becoming reacquainted with my family’s hometown, Philadelphia. I also managed to do some traveling—I spent the spring 2000 semester studying art history, Italian language, and etching in Florence, Italy. I had the chance to live with a host mother and other students from Costa Rica, Switzerland, and England, and managed to see and photograph almost every corner of Tuscany.

“I also traveled to Mesa Verde National Park in Colorado in the summer of 1999 for my senior thesis in structural engineering—my project partner and I designed a stabilizing structure for Square Tower, one of the park’s Anasazi cliff dwellings, which was in danger of collapsing. I loved being out west and had the chance to work in the field I think I’m headed for—historic preservation.

“I’m going back to Penn in July 2001 to start master’s degrees in architecture and historic preservation. Hopefully I’ll still have time to keep playing music and relax with friends!

“I’d love to hear from people from the classes of ‘96, ‘97, and ‘98!”

Derek Gilman '97 announced his engagement to Corrine Lynn Batchelor of Rome, Georgia, in the July 29, 2001, Herald-Tribune. The wedding was planned for August 4. Derek recently graduated from the Georgia Institute of Technology, which Corrine currently attends.

Mana Golzari '97 writes “I graduated magna cum laude in Biological Anthropology from Harvard University in June. I will be attending Stanford Medical School in the fall. Last summer, I went to Iran and shot a documentary exploring the lives of Iranian women. The film sold out in Boston and was screened in Sarasota at Burns Court Cinema on August 11. It will enter the festival circuit in the fall.”

Stephanie Jones-Byrne '91 is working as manager of A. Parker’s Books and Book Bazaar in downtown Sarasota. The bookstore specializes in out-of-print, scholarly, rare, and collectible books. She is also active with Sarasota in Defense of Animals (SDA), where she serves as vegetarian education coordinator. She is married to Ryan Byrne, and has four cats and one iguana.

Michael Horlick '94 announced his engagement to Elizabeth St. Rain of Beverly Shores, Indiana, in the July 22, 2001, Herald-Tribune. The wedding is set for September 8. Michael is employed by Radio Free Asia in Washington, D.C., and is a graduate student at the University of Maryland in College Park, Maryland. He is also an avid rock climber. His new bride is a kitchen designer.

Brian Lynch '97 announced his engagement to Barbara Wynn of Sarasota in the June 10, 2001, Herald-Tribune. The wedding was set for June 23. Brian is now working for Gateway Computers.

Todd Poxon '92 announced his engagement to Julia Bate of Alexandria, Virginia, in the May 27, 2001, Herald-Tribune. The wedding was set for June 30. Todd is a lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force and will be assigned to the joint U.S. military advisory group in Bangkok as a logistics exchange officer to the Royal Thai Air Force. His new bride, an employee of the Department of State, will be serving as vice consul at the U.S. Embassy in Bangkok.

Brian Ries '90 writes “I have just moved back to Sarasota from Boston with my fiancée, Alisa Mitchell. She is from Sarasota as well and we have know each other since we were teenagers. I still work for a group of wineries that encompass five continents and commute back to Boston once a month.”

Laurie Roberts '97 graduated from the honors program at Drexel University magna cum laude with a BS in photography. She also recieved the Noah Arliss Award for Excellence in Documentary Photography, the highest award given in her department. She will return to Sarasota in August to start on a book contract with the mystery writer, Stuart Kaminsky, to do a photo essay book on “A Day With” about 20 top mystery writers, including Robert Parker, Tony Hillerman, Sue Grafton, Johnathan and Faye Kellerman, and others.

Matthew Roberts '97 wrote in May: “I can’t believe that in 2 weeks time I will be taking my last undergrad exam ever—it doesn’t seem 2 minutes since I was on stage in the Van Wezel receiving my diploma the first time 'round. But so much has happened since then. After deciding a life of Chemistry at Oxford was not for me, I transferred to University of Bristol to study for a BSC in Economics and have had a great time ever since! But yet again it's time to move on to pastures new. Last summer I was employed in an internship by the investment bank UBS Warburg in their Corporate Finance department in London. Worked hard, but also partied hard with people from all over Europe and the U.S., including Laurie Roberts who was also in London on a summer programme! After the gruelling 10 weeks I was offered a permanent analyst position, starting in August 2001. Thank you UBS Warburg (for those who have seen the commercials!). My parents recently moved back to the UK, so now I have no real excuse to go back to Sarasota, though I seem to be managing regular visits until the work starts!"

Stephanie Spalding '97 writes "Well, I finally graduated from Duke this May and I'm currently looking for a place to live in Newport News, Virginia, where I'm starting my job as an Environmental Engineering consultant in August. I majored, in addition to basketball, in Environmental Engineering and French. My French major was specifically so that I could study abroad. So, I spent 7 months in Paris last spring and I loved every minute of it. My most memorable experience of it all was my 16 days travelling in Morocco for spring break. I camped in the Sahara and was almost bought by a local man for 150 camels. I am told that this was a fair offer. Escaping the throes of slavery, I ended up seeing most major towns and touring the oldest palaces and casbahs of the country. I highly recommend it to anyone who travels. I am planning on working in Virginia long enough to save up some money to go to graduate school, hopefully in about 3 years, where I will get my masters degree in Environmental Engineering. That's about all for now. I hope to hear about how more of my classmates are doing."

Sean Wilson '96 graduated from New College with a B.A. in German Studies/Economics. After spending 2000-01 in Germany on a Fulbright Fellowship, he will begin the German Studies Ph.D. program at the University of Minnesota in the fall of 2001.

Elissa White '99 is majoring in business management at the University of Florida, where she is in the honors program and on the Dean's List. Her mom wrote, "since Elissa attends college full time and has four part-time jobs including note-taking at school and writing for a software company. At all other times she can be found riding roller coasters across the country. Perhaps you saw her on The Learning Channel or Discovery Channel on TV, where she described the ride on Montu for the show 'Top Ten Coasters of 2001.'"

The 00s

Jennifer Wohlforth '00 is working on a BS in Psychology at Flagler College in St. Augustine. She spent the summer working in retail and as a camp counselor. During the year she works on a horse farm in exchange for riding time. She writes "should you put anything of mine in the newsletter, please mention a congrats to the Class of 2001 and a big YAY! to the Drama League graduates. (Go League!)"

Scholarship Winners

The Sol Malinsky, Elizabeth Herman, and Aaron Korotie memorial scholarships are given annually to graduating seniors who will be attending a post-secondary degree program at an accredited college or university. The Aaron Korotie scholarship ($1000) is awarded based on achievement in math, science, and technology, while the Sol Malinsky scholarship ($500) winner is selected by Dr. Eloise Malinsky for general excellence. The Elizabeth Herman Memorial Scholarship ($1000) is awarded to a graduating senior who intends to pursue a career in medicine. The winner is selected by Betsy's mother, Mrs. Nancy Herman.

The winners from the Class of 2001 are

Bryon Carroll (Aaron Korotie Memorial)

Viet Dung Nguyen (Sol Malinsky Memorial)

Dawn Akridge (Betsy Herman Memorial)

The Class of 1998 also sponsors a scholarship, awarded to a graduating senior who plans to major in the performing or fine arts. It is based on artistic and innovative performance. This year's winner is Catlan McClelland.

Teacher News

Deb Blackwood (Computers, Drama) was recently appointed Dean for the Diocesan School for Ministry at St. Boniface Episcopal Church. The church's newsletter says "In this new position, she will develop and sustain FOCUS, be a staff resource to the Commission on Ministry, and oversee the diocesan continuing education program, sexual misconduct awareness training, and Education for Ministry. FOCUS is the excellent program for discernment of ministry which meets monthly at St. Boniface. Deb will continue to hang her alb here as a parish deacon but the bishop has asked her to be available to travel through the diocese on some Sundays." She will be taking a leave of absence for the 2001-2002 school year.

Cara Crowley (Grade 2) married John LaForge II of Sarasota on March 17, 2001, at Selby Botanical Gardens.
